Arps Dairy produces a full line of dairy products with more than sixty percent of the production devoted to two percent reduced fat milk. Other types of milk produced by Arps Dairy include whole milk, one- percent milk, half- percent milk, and fat-free (skim) milk. Arps also produces sour cream, chip dip, and cottage cheese which is made the old fashioned way.

Arps Dairy distributes its products within a 50-mile radius of Defiance and the raw milk comes from 22 local, independent farms within 30 miles of Defiance. In using local dairy farms, Arps Dairy knows exactly where the milk comes from. It has to test up to their standards. There are at least a half dozen tests that company officials look at before accepting a producer's milk. Even the outward appearance of the farm is important to Arps. It is because of this close location to the farms and stores that Arps' products reach the customer quicker and taste so fresh and delicious.

Shortly after Prohibition in 1933 City Beverage Company was started in Montpelier, Ohio by Frank Guillinger. The company distributed Anheuser-Busch and Stroh's beer brands along with other types of beer, wines, liquors and bar supplies. In 1960 the company was sold and moved to Defiance, Ohio. A new facility was built in 1989 on Route #66 just north of Defiance. The new location is a refrigerated CEW (controlled-environmental-warehousing). In 1916 Edwin B. Moats left his jobs on the B&O Railroad and on the farm to sell the new Ford motorcar as well as Allen Automotives, made in Fostoria. He became a partner in the business with Andrew and Mable Weippert, and their company proudly became “Weippert and Moats.”

After several years, Andrew Weippert’s health failed and he sold his interest in the business to Edwin. Edwin did well selling Model T’s until his own untimely death at the age of 48. Edwin left the business to his eldest son Paul, who attended medical school in Cincinnati at the time. Paul then came home to help his mother take care of his siblings Terry, Lee, Elizabeth, and Fern. Paul never went back to school because he enjoyed the Ford business so much.

Paul E. Moats became a very successful Ford dealer and won numerous awards. As well, he helped build a Methodist Church and to open a bank in Sherwood after the infamous “bank holiday.” Paul served as president of that bank for more than twenty years. Paul married in 1932, and he and his wife became the parents of John, a Bryan physician, and Mark, the present owner who followed his father into the Ford dealership business. Wes, Mark’s son is the new car manager.

The four generations of Moats gentlemen were born with “Ford in their blood,” and their commitment to the Ford name and Ford products has been evident in their mission to give the best car, best service, and best price to customers in Northwest Ohio.

Stambaugh Jewelers

512 Clinton St.
Defiance, OH 43512
Phone: 419-782-4061

Stambaugh Jewelers has been northwest Ohio's most trusted quality Jeweler for over 56 years. Founded by Troy Stambaugh, who originally moved from Northern Kentucky to Defiance, Ohio, in 1946 in order to manage Mollencup Jewelers, a chain operated jewelry store. After managing Mollencup's for two years, Troy established Stambaugh Jewelers believing that he could operate his own store better than the chain store. On Saturday November 6, 1948, Stambaugh Jewelers opened for business at 516 Clinton St, and today is the oldest established jewelry business in the Defiance Area. Stambaugh's original quarters were small measuring only 11 feet by 25 feet. Several years later when more space was necessary, an adjoining store, formally Jay's Men Shop, was added giving Stambaugh Jewelers the much need space to expand.

In November of 1968, Stambaugh Jewelers entered its second generation of operation when Troy's son, David, joined the family business. David continued the tradition of faithfully serving the people of Defiance and the surrounding area, with the dedication to provide the finest jewelry and service. From this commitment to the people of Defiance, Stambaugh Jewelers once again outgrew their location and moved in 1980 to their current location at 512 Clinton St.

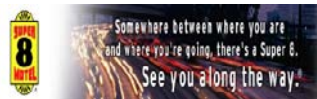

Today Stambaugh Jewelers is keeping with the family tradition and is under the guidance of the third generation. Scott Stambaugh, along with three other family members manages and operate Stambaugh Jewelers. We have always prided ourselves on growing and learning to better serve our customers, which is why we are proud members of the Independent Jewelers Organization. IJO is the largest jewelry-buying group in the world. This membership allows us the opportunity to make extraordinary diamond and jewelry purchases as well as attending semi-annual conventions to update product knowledge. We travel to Antwerp, Belgium, the largest diamond cutting center in the world, twice a year in order to hand select the diamonds for our customers. Stambaugh Jewelers is proud to carry traditional jewelry plus many designer lines including Mark Schneider Designs, Galatea, Hot Diamonds, Elma-Gil, Kasper and Esh Add-A-Links, and others.

A true leader has a vision and works to turn that vision into reality. When this happens, people and communities reap the rewards. H. Eugene (Gene) Smart was a true leader. His vision was to form a charitable foundation that would support programs and projects within the Defiance area. He gathered fifteen community leaders who share with him a deep commitment and interest in this undertaking. Together this group of people chartered The Defiance Area Foundation in 1979 with $22,000 as the beginning endowment. From its inception, The Foundation has focused on and participated in building projects and funding of programs that impact the quality of life for the citizens of Defiance. The Foundation grants monies from both unrestricted and restricted funds. Trustees are elected on a yearly rotating basis to conduct the business of The Foundation. Membership in The Foundation is open to Defiance County residents who demonstrate a philanthropic nature and a passion for seeing their county grow and prosper.
